POETRY.

One of the sweetest things that Crabb ever wrote is the following song of a heart-broken maiden, crazed by the perfidy of her lover, and sighing gently to be at rest. The melody of the of Æsculapius was soon enlightened. From any search

Let me not have this gloomy view Let he not have this gloomy view
About my room, about my bed;
But morning roses, wet with dew,
To cool my burning brows instead;
As flowers that once in Eden grew,
Let them their fragrant spirits shed,
And ever, day their sweets renew
Till I, a fading flower, am dead.

O let the herbs I loved to rear
Give to my sense their perfumed breath!
Let them be placed about my bier,
And grace the gloomy house of death.
Fil have my grave beneeth a hill,
Where only Lucy's self shall know,
Where runs the mer pelacity in.

Where only Lucy's sell shall know,
Where runs the pure pelucid rill
Upon its gravelly bed below:
There violets on the borders blow,
And insect their soft light display, Till, as the morning sunbeams glow, The cold phosphoric fires decay.

That is the grave to Lucy shown;
The soil a pure and silver sand,
The green cold moss above it grown
Unplucked of all but maiden hand.
In virgin earth, till then unturned,
There let my maiden form be laid;
Nor let my changed clay be sourced.

Nor let my changed clay be spurned, Nor for new guests that bed be made. There will the lark, the lamb, in sport,

There will the lark, the lamb, in sport,
In air, on earth, securely play;
And Lucy to my grave resort,
As innocent, but not so gay.
I will not have the churchyard ground,
With bones all black and ugly grown,
To press my shivering body round,
Or on my wasted limbs be thrown.

With ribs and skulls I will not sleep Through which the ringed earth-worms creep,
And on the shrouded bosom prey.
I will not have the bell proclaim
When those sad marriage-rites begin,
And boys, without regard or shame,
Press the vile mouldering masses in.

Say not, it is beneath my care,—
I cannot these cold truths allow;
These thoughts may not afflict me there,
But O! they vex and tease me now!
Raise not a turf, nor set a stone,

That man a maiden's grave may trace, But thou, my Lucy, come alone, And let affection find the place!

"A PRETTY LARCENY." Translated for the New York Times.

The art of appropriating to one's self the effects of others, has for some years past advanced with immense strides. Robbery is now cloaked under forms so polite, and manners so delicate, that the utmost prudence and caution are necessary to the merchant, stranger and traveller, and a deep course of study requisite to discover under masked appearances, ever threatening dangers. The following anecdote is illustrative of that degree of perfection to which the science of thieving has attained.

Dr ----, one of our physicians, most celebrated for his knowledge, concerning the diseases of the mind, was visited one morning by a lady bordering upon forty years, pretty enough, and still blooming.
The equipage of the counters thing into the Dr's court yard.

She was immediately introduced, and entered in tears, sobbing out, "You behold, sir, an unfortunate woman a prey to the deepest anguish. I have a son, he is dear to me, and as much so to my husband-he is our only

Hereupon came an additional flow of tears, tears more plentiful than the classical Artemisia shed over the tomb have had terrible fears....He has arrived at that age when the passions develope the passions developed th the passions develope themselves....Although we satisfy him mon every point many form somewhat simhim upon every point-money, freedom....already has he shown at different periods, signs of derange cent.... His monomania is the more distressing as he is ever talking, in the midst of the incoherence of his discourses, about jewels and diamonds which he has disposed of or given away. We imagine that he is madly smitten with some female, but of little character no doubt, and in order to satisfy her cravings, has contracted sundry heavy engagements....This is at the same time nothing more than mere conjecture; his father and myself cannot light upon the means to divine his motive for this

"Well! Madame, bring your son here." "Tomorrow, then, sir, at twelve o'clock."

The Doctor bustled away, to conduct the Countess to her carriage. He noticed the coat of arms and the

The following morning the Countess alighted from her carriage at the shop of a celebrated jeweller, and after having for some time haggled at the price of a set of diamonds worth 30,000 francs, she at last decides upon the purchase.

Then taking them up, and carelessly drawing a purse from her reticule, she finds in it no more than 10,000 francs in Bank notes; these she first displays, then returns to her purse again. "Permit some one to accompany me home, I will show him the way, and my husband will pay, for I have not the entire sum about me at present."

The jeweller made a sign to a young man who jumped from behind the counter, vastly proud to enter the carriage of a Countess. They arrive at the Doc-

The lady enters in a great hurry, and says to the man of physic: "Here is my son, I shall leave you." The lad enters, the Countess resumes her seat, the carriage rolls quietly along, and the horses are soon forced

"What is passing in my head? nothing, Sir; but here is the account made out for the set of diamonds." We shall examine into that ! 'Tis right,' said the Doctor, gently pushing aside the account, "I know, I advertisement.

"If you are acquainted with the signature, Sir, it remains then but to pay me."

"There, there! be quiet; your diamonds....where did you obtain them? what have you done with them? Speak, don't be afraid. . . . Come. . . .

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 9, 1834.

Connecticut Election .- The New Haven Register of Tuesday, says that in every town heard from, except one, there has been a democratic gain. In New Haven 300; Hampden, 13; Milford, 41; Derty, 72; Woodbridge, 13; North Haven, 11; Middletown, 120. This looks well-and we have strong hopes that the democratic candidates for Congress are elected.

P. S .- Since the above was in type, we have later news, via New York. The returns thus far show a great democratic gain since last year, and from the particular part of the State in which this gain comes, we have little doubt of the election of the democratic Congressional ticket.

Philadelphia Elections.—The latest returns give on the side of Sutherland, the democratic candidate for Congress, a majority over James Gowen, the Bank candidate, of eleven hundred and sixty-six, and to Gen. Ash, the democratic candidate, over Watmough, the Bank candidate, of ELEVEN HUNDRED AND

The Hon. Calvin Willey, of Connecticut .- It will be seen by the subjoined letter, that this gentleman, placing a just estimate upon the present crisis in the political affairs of the country, has felt it his duty publicly to avow his opposition to the Bank of the United States, and his intention to support the President in his efforts to rid the country of its pernicious influence. Mr WILLEY is one of the oldest democrats in Connecticut, and before he resigned his professional exertions for the laborious duties of public life, was one of the most distinguished legal advocates in that State. With talents of the first order, and a mind well disciplined, and stored with the fruits of severe study and extensive research, his professional services were in high demand; and he had scarcely attained the zenith of his usefulness, when he was called into the service of the public. Practising upon the doctrine that no man has a right to refuse to serve his fellow citizens in any station to which they may call him, Mr WILLEY, -after holding several minor offices, with equal honor to himself and his constituents-accepted a seat in the Senate of the United States, and gave up an extensive and lucrative legal practice, for the toils and turmoils of political life. Upon the expiration of his senatorial term, he reluctantly accepted the anti-masonic nomination for Governor, and by his personal popularity contributed very much to the heavy vote given by that party in 1832. Mr. WILLEY was one of those democrats-and there were many such, who were deceived by the false professions of John Quincy Adams into a partial abandonment of their old and earliest friends-but, being constitutionally a democrat, he was never, we believe, seduced into the advocacy of undisguised federal measures-and for the last two years has held himself aloof from any political connexion with the discordant and parti-colored materials of the opposition. Having received the highest honors of his State, Mr

WILLEY had retired from political life, to indulge his natural inclination for agricultural pursuits, and to resume his favorite profession of the law; and we rejoice that one whom we personally know to be so much respected for his private virtues, and so generally honored for his public course, has again entered upon the political arena, where he is still competent to exercise an extensive and salutary influence-and that he, like a RUSH, an ALLEN, and a SHALER, has resolved to buckle on his armor, and fight the battles of the democracy of his country.

"Tolland, Sept. 15th, 1834. now before me, and in answer can only say, I have no wish to enter the field of political controversy, and more especially to have my name appear in the public journals of the day, and sincerely lament the occasion which now calls for it. Still, however, I never will shrink from a duty I owe my fellow man and the public, to publish and maintain my sentiments regarding public men and public measures, especially in times like the present, when the liberties of the American people are in imminent danger from the overwhelming influence of a mammoth Bank, aided by great talents and a monied aristocracy; and shall never refuse openly to take the side of the people, and to march boldly with my Democratic friends to the contest. I am against the U. S. Bank in every form. The last year, I think, should convince every thinking man, that we have more danger to fear from that institution, than we have from any other source. What do we see? Old federalists of the Hartford Convention stamp and apostate democrats uniting in supporting the Bank, and the Bank sustaining them. My dear friend, it becomes the republicans to be up and doing; to cry aloud and spare not. At this time let no man lie asleep on his post. We have no other means to use but truth and justice, and the elective franchise. Let us march boldly up to the polls, and elect no man to office but honest, unflinching Democrats, that can neither be bought or sold. Let us have no trimmers or twaddlers. These are my sentiments. Should you deem it important to make them known through the medium of your useful Journal, you have my liberty so to do, and should you find it necessary and expedient to give my name to the public, you may do so. Yours sincerely, CALVIN WILLEY.

GIDEON WELLES, Esq."

William Perry, the young Democrat who was murdered by a Bank ruffian at the Philadelphia election, was a member of the Jackson Democratic Association of Locust Ward, and had voted with the Democratic party during the day. He was buried on Sunday, and his funeral was attended by many thousands of his Democratic brethren. Philadelphia is in a state of great excitement. The claim of the Whigs that Perry was a member of their party, is a gross and premeditated falsehood. The Mayor has offered five hundred dollars reward for the detection of the murderer of Per-

A Splendid Spectacle.—I witnessed on the evening of the thirtieth of March, 1834, the most striking spectacle that I have ever seen, although it has been my fortone to witness two or three of the most destructive fires the basement room, where they pri d open the drawers that have ever occurred in the cities of our country .-Peculiar circumstances of the air, the season, and the position, all concurred to produce the unparalleled sublimity of the view of this conflagration. The time was midnight. The wind, the day previous, had been brisk from the South, of the bland and delicious temperature of a Louisiana spring day, and driving along the air that to. The Queen's troops proved victorious—driving half disclose the delightful blue of the sky, tempering the brightness of the sun, and rendering simple existence in the open air a positive luxury. The foliage of the trees had attained about two-thirds of its full development, and was precisely in that stage of tender, yellowish verdure, when spring, in my view, wears her most beautiful face. Nothing could exceed the brilliancy of the green carpet on the shores of the river. Nor have I any where else seen such a charming border of trees The crops in Great Britain and Ireland were favor- and grass, as skirted the stream for a league below the town. Between these splendid shores, the river rolled full to its brim,-smooth, unbroken, apparently a vast constable had been killed at Ballynanty. On Thursday evening, as we have stated, this crowd was getting to be so riotous, that a Justice of the Peace felt it to be his duty to interfere; and on the day following complaint was made to the Selectmen. It seems that a young child is now sick at the house, of a typhus fever, and has suffered exceedingly from these annoyances. The peace of the two families has of course been destroyed, from the same cause. On Friday evening the Selectmen had a force stationed near the house, and every thing was quiet. Such are the facts, as they have come to our knowledge. Of course no person with proper views and feelings can have two opinions in regard to this affair .-The authors of the mischief-for it is clear that some mischief makers are at the bottom of it-ought, if possible, be detected, exposed and punished. Night after night to repeat annoyances, to the disturbance of a whole neighborhood, to the raising of mobs, and to endangering life itself, is no light offence. We most sinsecure a liberal patronage from the admirers of the fine cerely hope that the Selectmen will succeed in ferreting out those who have been concerned in producing these mischiefs .

The Commonwealth Insurance Office was broken into on Tuesday night, by removing the fastenings of one of the front windows, and the Secretary's desk forced open, and the key of the safe obtained therelonging to the two vaults, taken out; but not understanding the process to go through in order to open the Park, and amuses his numerous audiences quite as well as without effecting their object, taking with them, howdoors of the vaults, the villains were obliged to decamp ever, an account book, a quantity of paper, and a new umbrella, which had the owner's name marked on the handle, the initials of which are J. They left the office by the back door, and by the tracks left in the yard, it is presumed there must have been several engaged in the affair-from whence they scaled a brick wall with the assistance of a cellar door, and passed to the rear of the Firemen's Insurance Office, the cellar of which they entered, but finding nothing, they probably made their exit by the front cellar door, the bolts of which were discovered to be with-

Two young men lately, at Bristol, (R. I.) got in so dreadful a passion in a discussion about their respective personal beauty, that they determined to fight. Last night, about 10 o'clock, house No 3 Tremont ace, was entered by burglars, by climbing over the back fence and breaking a kitchen window, and re-moving the fastenings. They lit a light, and passed into of a sideboard, with a carving knife, taken from the china closet. In one of the drawers they found a dozen peaches, and three dozen silver spoons. The peaches, after carefully and delicately peeling them, they eat; the spoons they left as they were found. In another draw was two or three pounds of cake-they selected a portion of the best and broke up the rest .-From the basement they ascended to the parlors, where they searched a work box, pocket book, &c., but found only 30 cents in money.

An implement, like a broken cutlass with the point ground down, intended probably for prying open windows, was left upon the floor. After concluding their search, they very carefully extinguished the light and left the premises by the front door. We understand that they were seen climbing over the fence into the house, by two females who resided in another dwelling house in the rear of No 3 Tremont place, and who also saw them, through the windows of the back parler, examining the pocket book. Why they gave no alarm, can be attributed only to fear.

A Good One.—Every profession, trade or occupation has its toils and troubles; none, we believe, are exempt, though some may be afflicted to a greater extent than others. We have our share. With the very best of feeling pervading us, we will relate what we conceive to be what our caption sets forth. The other day a man from "down east" called at our office and requested us to write a notice and insert it in our paper of to-day. He gave us the particulars and we set about writing a flaming advertisement, ook considerable pains, and made it right for insertion. After having finished it, we were asked our price, which we stated; the individual then told us that he would take it and call again. The next day we called at the Post office, as usual, when to our surprise, the very first thing that met our eyes, was this same advertisement, which we had taken so much pains to write, posted in a conspicuous place. This we called a cheaper road to wealth. said little, pulled our hat over our eyes and walked off .-Columbia (N. Y.) Sent.

The letter also contains some remarks relating to the Cyanometer, an instrument intended to measure the density of the atmosphere, from the color of the sky .- Ib.

WATKINS, THOMSONIAN BOTANIC PHYSIA. CIAN—Infirmary, Harvard street, (opposite 499 Washngton street,) Boston—Has been acquainted with and possessed of a right to use Dr. Samuel Thomson's Patent Vegetable Medicine, for the last 21 years, and administered them in Europe, and South and North America, (including the West India Islands,) and with as much success as any other can,
(with truth,) boast of. In the nine months' practice he has had at the Harvard street Infirmary, he has not had the misfortune to lose one patient, although many of them had been for years in the hands of the members of the Medical Faculty, and onne of them abandoned to their (supposed) hopeless Inte. As he is so well known in Boston, it is unnecessary to enter very largely into a detail of success. The following are a few o his patients:—

his patients:—
Stephen Gore, (inquire at Thomas Holland's Beach street, Boston.) totally blind for about 5 months, one eye, nearly destroyed, general debility, legs swollen and lame—appeared completely charged with poisons. Sarah Town, of Andover, indigestion, severe pains throughout the system, and piles—cured with 3 courses, &c.

Mrs Lucinda Kerr, Sea street, Boston, sait rheum; top of the head one entire scab—cured in 4 courses, &c.

A. W. cannot be at the expense to enumerate more cases, at present. He has not named cases of fevers, they are almost too ephemeral in the hands of a physician acquainted with his duty—the ignoramus or continued fever, is unknown in the practice of such. Delicacy will not not permit the naming of several diseases, which he has treated with universal success. In almost all the cases of diseases which have been treated by him, he has been under the necessity to expel not only the disease, but the poisons which produced and continued them—and all with innocent and hamless simples.

This practice induces him to believe he is not too bold in saying, the Thomsonian treatment removes both disease and the poisons af the Medical Faculty from the human system, when

More than forty years have now elapsed since the receipt was given me by my uncle, a celebrated Physician, at a time that I was troubled with a very bad cough and cold. After taking one dose, I found immediate relief, and a few doses cured me enirely; the effects were astonishing quick, and the numerous in stances of the wonderful efficacy of these drops on different people, has induced me to put them up in Phials, with directions, under the impression it would be a public benefit. And as that is my sole aim—and to convince the public that is all, and as a sure guarantee against quackery and deception, I authorise my agents to return the money to all those that do not get relief by their returning the bottle and directions. NDIGESTION, JAUNDICE AND BILIOUS COMPLAINTS. ANDERSON'S VEGETABLE ELIXIR, for Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Jaundice and Bilious Complaints; weakness of the Stomach and Bowels, and consequent loss of appetite; nervous complaints, headach, sour stomach, flatulence and habitual costiveness.

This medicine is composed en'rely of vegetable substances, is perfectly safe in its operation, and may be given to children or persons of the most delicate habit, without the least risk of inconvenience.

The uniform success which has attended the use of it where has been extensively used, in Boston and various other parts if the United States, and in the West Indies, attested by disin rested and highly respectable persons, affords, next to a trial the medicine itself, the best commentary upon its virtues, d the best recommendation which can be offered to those Extract of a letter received from a gentleman in Boston, who had suffered severely from indigestion for three years. 'During this time, I suffered very much from mental depression, constant pain in the head and breast, and side, sharp shooting pains over almost the whole system—the food that I are seemed to over almost the whole system—the food that I ate seemed to pass into my lungs and there remain, giving me great pain attended with a strong degree of heat. At times, I suffered so much from the pain of indigestion as to be confined to the bed for two or three days. During one of these most severe attacks, I was induced by the advice of a friend to try your Vegetable Medicine. In the course of a few weeks I found myself much better, and by the time I had taken two bottles, considered myself wholly free from the complaint. I continue, on the least feeling of any thing like indigestion or pressure on the stomach, to take about a table spoonful of it, which, in the stomach, to take about a table spoonful of it, which, in the course of a few hours, completely restores me. It has had with me a very wonderful effect, in strengthening the stomach and invigorating the whole system, and judging by my own case, 1 consider it in all diseases connected with the digestive organs, to be a very valuable medicine.

It has been found singularly efficacions in secretal than the digestive organs,

[Opposite the Post Office, Boston.]

[Opposite the Post Office, Boston.]

[ILLIAM H. ROGERS, most respectfully invites the attention of Merchant Tailors and the public generally, to his new invented Imperial Stocks for the Neck, which for ease and elegance very far surpass every thing of the kind hitherto manufactured in this vicinity. They are cut scientifically; the materials and manner of making are quite different from those in common use, and they may be covered many times, and retain exactly the same shape as when first made. W. H. R. requests permission to enumerate the usual faults in the common Stocks, viz. 1st, the very inferior materials used; 2d, their sitting away from the chin and exposing the neck, when disagreeably close at the bottom; 3d, the edge at the top being uncomfortably tight, as to cause a distortion of the features by moving the head; 4th, that of their bulging out at the sides, by moving the head a little downwards, which has a most distaste ful appearance. By W. H. Rogers' deservedly admired and extensively patronized invention, all these faults are completely obviated. Naval and military gentlemen will find them the most pleasing and durable. Made to order of any texture, by the dozen or single, at the lowest cash prices. Ladies' Riding Stocks beautifully made to order.

DAMS'S PATENT SWELLED BEAM BEDA STEAD Factory. 422, Washington street, Boston, a few doors south of Boylston Market, on the opposite side.
N. B.—The swelled beam effectually prevents the Sacking from sugging, and does not increase the expense.
Purchasers are particularly requested to examine the principle of the Swelled Beam before purchasing, as there are other windlass bedsteads offered for sale as an improved article, which have not the Swelled Beam.
Orders promptly attended to and carefully packed for exportation.
